The Triumph TR6 (1968–76) was the best-seller of the TR range built by Triumph. Of the 94,619 TR6s produced, 86,249 were exported. All TR6 sports cars featured in-line six-cylinder carburetted engines with a four-speed manual transmission. An optional overdrive unit gave drivers close gearing for aggressive driving with an electrically switched overdrive operating on second, third, and fourth gears on early models and third and fourth on later models. TR6 construction was fundamentally old-fashioned: the body was bolted onto a frame instead of the two being integrated into a unibody structure.
